Patent Medicines.

Editor Apostolic Times: Sometime ago your paper contained an editorial endorsement of patent medicines, in vindication of your habit of advertising such medicines in your columns. I fully expected that some one accustomed to writing for the press would call your attention to the inconsistency on the part of an editor of a religious journal, thus endorsing these nostrums that are palmed off upon the unsuspecting public as specifics. But as no one else has seen fit to take the matter up, I write with your permission to say a few things on the subject. I will say in the first place that I am a member of the Christian church and have been an interested reader and supporter of the Apostolic Times from its birth. I have supported it, because I believed it to be an instrumentality for good; nor have I ever before recorded a complaint against its management in any particular. One of its former editors once asked my opinion upon the question of advertising patent medicines; and not having then reflected on the subject, I told him that I could see no impropriety in it. Since then, however, public attention has been called to the question, and it has been freely discussed, between medical and religious journals; and I am now satisfied that the promiscuous use of patent medicines, is injurious and hurtful. When therefore my favorite religious paper gives its sanction to that which I believe to be hurtful to the public, I feel that something should be said; and here permit me to remark, that the Times is the first religious paper, so far as I know, "to endorse patent medicines." Others have only sought to justify themselves in publishing these advertisements on the plea, that they could not be supposed to know the character of these medicines, and that the people must judge of them for themselves. But the Times has become the advocate of these nostrums, and the defenders of what thousands of what thousands of the most intelligent physicians in the world, consider as a great evil! Many readers of religious journals take it for granted, that whatever appears in such papers, is in fact what it is represented to be. On the occasion of one of my visits to a patient recently, he asked me what I thought of "that medicine," pointing to an obscure corner of the paper, I told him that I knew nothing about it, and asked him how he happened to notice that all. He replied, "There is nothing in that paper that I don't read; and I believe, it all reliable." Vendors of patent medicines understand this presumption in regard to religious journals, and hence their eagerness to advertise their wares in such papers. But in addition to this presumption, your readers now have your endorsement of these medicines. In view of this fact I desire to call your attention to the character of some of the medicine advertised, in a single issue of your paper that of December 7th. "Dr. Flag's instant relief is a wonderful and immediate cure for all aches and pains." Of course every thoughtful person knows this to be false; and yet it goes to your reader with your endorsement—not only the quasi endorsement of being in your paper, but your actual editorial endorsement. No odds what pain your readers may be afflicted with, you tell them that it is just as safe and wise to buy and apply the universal pain extinguisher, as to call in a learned and experienced physician.

"The day Kidney pad is a certain cure for kidney and bladder affections." This is ridiculous in the extreme, but it has the endorsement of the Apostolic Times and many a poor sufferer will be deceived thereby. "No matter what your feeling or symptoms are, or what the disease, allment is use Hop Bitters." And the "king cure all" goes to your readers with your endorsement.

It is a well-known fact that a prominent ingredient of many patent medicines is opium, which gives relief by merely allaying pain, without reaching the seat of the disease. A person afflicted with a pain, whose origin he is wholly ignorant, buys a patent medicine containing opium. The pain is for the time being allayed, and the patient thinks the medicine helped him. But by and by the pain returns, and another dose of the medicine is taken with the same temporary effect, but the pain returns again, and by this time a larger dose of the nostrum is demanded. And thus the poor victim goes on till the opium habit fastens itself upon him! And all this time the unfortunate sufferer thinks he is using a harmless remedy because it advertised in the Apostolic Times, whose editor endorses such things!

It is also well-known that whisky is an important ingredient in some patent medicines. In one of the advertisements in your paper of above date, French brandy is named as one of the ingredients of the remedy. Of course these remedies, if their use is persisted in, will create a thirst for strong drink. The accursed barroom is not responsible for all the drunkards that people our land. These patent nostrums have their share of the responsibility; and so have the religious papers that advertise and endorse them!

The French council of State has drafted a bill which will probably be passed by the new chamber of Deputies, forbidding druggists to advertise or sell any patent medicine or nostrum. So great and patent has this evil become that even legislatures are considering the question of abating it. And yet religious papers that go into unsuspecting and confiding families to be read and believed, are ready to uphold this evil, by advertising and commending it.

It is also a well known fact that some patent medicines contain arsenic. This poisonous drug is sometimes not dissolved in the fluids that contain it, and in such cases it settles to the bottom of the bottle. When this is the case the last few doses will contain a poisonous quantity of arsenic. In this way unsuspecting people are sometimes seriously if not fatally injured. Only a few days ago a druggist remarked in the presence of some gentlemen that he knew of some such cases.

Finally it is known to the medical world that these remedies are nothing more than "quack" medicines, having no virtue in them as medicines. They are prepared simply to filch money from the pockets of people who have no means of knowing their composition, or what their effect is upon the human system. In a word, they are for the most part frauds, and I do most sincerely protest against this thing of religious papers allowing themselves to be used by these fraudulent enterprises, to prey upon the credulity and ignorance of the public.
JACOB D. DOUGLASS, M. D.

The article referred to is as follows:—
Apostolic Times: "There is generally a great deal more truth in patent medicine advertisements than they get credit for; and we think we can truthfully say, as a rule, there is no more humbuggery in patent medicines than there is in the medical profession. The science itself is speculative one. Look at the case of President Garfield, for instance. Patent medicines must stand on their own merits. Physicians stand on the merits of the profession. If a patient medicine has no merit it will fall flat before it is scarcely born.

The American people are not such fools as some would-be guardians of the public weal would have them believe, but there are frequently conditions of society when the people will not speak out what they know from experience to be true, for fear of being laughed at by the leaders. We have a case in point now—patent medicines.

Patent medicines save to the people of the United States thousands of dollars annually. Generally we have found more virtue in patent medicines than we have in doctors' bills; then is the least remedy that the doctors should cry down. What are the doctors talking about. They are sharing in the prejudice of the doctors. Patent medicines nearly always possess merit, and we do not advertise any in the Times but what we have good reasons to

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JAN. 11, 1882.

THE whipping post bill has been defeated in the Legislature.

It is reported that John C. New is to be offered the Russian Mission.

GEN. GRANT has at last admitted that wrong was done Gen. John Fitz Porter.

THER is some talk at Washington of W. E. Chandler being made under the Secretary of the Navy.

A PHYSICIAN at Washington has offered $1,000 for Guiteau's body, the money to go toward the payment of Guiteau's debts.

THE silver in the sub treasury at New York, which is to be counted and transferred to the new treasurer amounts to $26,000,000 and weighs eight hundred tons.

REPRESENTATIVE Speer, of Georgia, encouraged by the aid the Government gave the Repudiators in the Virginia election, is seeking federal patronage to help his independent movement in Georgia.

FOUR bills apportioning the representation in Congress will be presented at the present session. That of New York is on a basis of 307 members, by Mr. Calkins, of Indiana, 311; Mr. Sherwin, of Illinois, 322 and Mr. Anderson, of Kansas, 325.

A FRESH start has been taken at Washington in the matter of the prosecution of the Star Route thieves, who for a time believed themselves proof against any steps that could be taken against the ring. Mr. G. Bliss, the special Assistant Attorney and District Attorney Corkhill, on Friday, procured warrants and caused the arrests of a large number of culprits, who are charged with executing fraudulent bonds, which were filed to secure contracts to Boone and Cabell two of the largest contractors engaged in carrying the mails. The general charge is conspiracy, each prisoner having, it is alleged, given various bonds from $200 to $10,000. The men arrested were refused bail in any sum less than $15,000.

WE publish elsewhere a letter from Dr. J. D. Dougherty, of Millwood, commenting upon an article which appeared not long since in the Apostolic Times, a paper edited by clergymen and published at Lexington, in this state. The Times having refused to publish the letter of Dr. Dougherty, we give it place in our columns. It seems to us that it is rather late in the day to attempt to write down the medical profession, and it is a little odd that the attempt should be made at any time by a clerical journalist. There is no class of men to whom physicians are more constant in courteous and helpful attention than the christian clergy, and no class, by whom, as a rule, their services are more highly appreciated. As to the manufacture and sale of patent medicines it is merely necessary to remark that the business will continue to flourish as long as humanity is frail, gullible and weak. They are usually compounded from recipes furnished by clever and rapacious quacks, and sometimes by a happy chance relieve the ills they are "guaranteed" to cure. As their composition is secret, or unknown to the multitude at least, the unfortunate invalid becomes a consumer of powerful medicaments which, as strychnia, arsenic, morphia, etc., are usually sold under the regulations of a poison law. If not medicines of this character, they are innocent and inert, and therefore useless. But they will continue to be made, advertised, sold and consumed all the same, and if they do harm, the physicians are the real beneficiaries at last.

For the parties who have caused me this trouble I hold no malice, conscious of my innocence and satisfied from their subsequent conduct that they hold the same opinion. To Mr. Gault, the jailer, I return my sincere thanks for his uniform kindness to me while in his charge, a kindness I hope I fully appreciate and to the public I have only to say that I rely on the future to prove the truth of my statement.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.
WEDNESDAY EVENING, JAN. 11, 1882.

THE party representatives,
Who met the other day,
To name the standardbearers
To lead the coming fray
With judgment and intelligence
Selected every man,
From humble closer of the files,
To leader of the van,
So everything that now remains,
For all of us to do,
Is put our shoulder to the wheel
And help the ticket through.

Mr. J. FLEMING POGUE, who has been studying law at Cincinnati, recently passed a most satisfactory examination and was admitted to the bar of that city. His prospects are most encouraging.

SEVENTEEN shares of Maysville and Mt. Carmel turnpike stock, belonging to the estate of the late Dr. A. K. Marshall, were disposed of at public sale recently by auctioneer John L. Grant to Thomas A. Respass, for $40 50 a share.

THE friends of the Mason County Guards will be informed through the columns of the DAILY BULLETIN, of all occurrences of interest at Ashland during the stay of the troops at that place. We have made arrangements to receive the news by telegraph every day.

Mr. T. A. CURRAN, attorney for the commonwealth was called to Claysville, Ky., this morning by a telegram, announcing that his father, who is now in his 84th year, was at the point of death. Judge tanton was appointed attorney pro tem to prosecute the case of the Commonwealth vs. Thomas P. Anderson, which is set for tomorrow. The remainder of the criminal docket was continued until Friday.

Suicide.

The painful intelligence of the death of Mrs. Wilson Lane, at Augusta, by her own hand, was received by telegraph by her friends in Maysville this morning. No further particulars were furnished. The deceased was formerly Miss Katie Troutman, and lived here. A host of friends will learn the sad news with the deepest regret. Wilson Lane is a brother of Isaac M. Lane, one of our well known citizens.

The Candidate for Jailer.

The nomination of Dennis Fitzgerald for Jailer by the Democracy of this county, settles at once all questions as to the harmonious action of the party in the pending canvass. Personally, and deservedly, Dennis Fitzgerald is one of the most popular men of his race in Mason county. Honest, brave, sober, intelligent, an active man of business, well-known to our citizens for thirty years as a perfectly trust worthy man in all the relations of life, there is no doubt, whatever, that he will command the full, cordial, and enthusiastic support not only of his own people and party, but of his personal friends of all parties.

Of course it will be the aim of the Radical party to create a prejudice against the candidate for Jailer on the ground that he is not indebted for his rights as a Democrat to the provisions of the Civil Rights Bill. But Dennis Fitzgerald has won his right to recognition and reward by years of honest, faithful, unshrinking devotion to the party which, from the earliest history of the Republic, has been the enemy of political proscription in every form; and it ill becomes the Radical pack which is now clamoring for the political recognition of the negro, to proscribe a brave, honest and deserving man simply and solely because he belongs to the Irish race!

Off for Ashland.

The Ashland prisoners, Neal, Craft, and Ellis, the former two ironed hand and foot and the latter with hand-cuffs only, were taken from the jail by Mr. Kouns, the sheriff of Boyd county, this morning at one o'clock and removed to the armory of the Mason County Guards to await the arrival of the Lexington and Frankfort troops who had been delayed at Helena by the track being obstructed by a wrecked freight train. A locomotive and four box cars were sent out from this city and brought them in about an hour later. They numbered seventy-four rank and file. They went immediately to the Telegraph which had been waiting for three hours or more, and a little later were joined by the Mason County Guards, having in charge the prisoners. The boat left at twenty minutes after two o'clock. The personnel of the Maysville company is as follows:

Capt.-A C Respass

believe do—some of them we know to be excellent.

We have stated the above facts because they are facts. We believe we can save our readers a large amount of money annually by placing good patent medicines before them. And we would have them understand that when we do so, we are not humbugging any more than their family physician who visits them, and we have the evidence and the witnesses to prove it. We are conscientious in this matter.

The Sensations Of Hanging.

Yesterday several gentlemen were speaking of capital punishment, when Mr. J. L. McNeely, one of the most prosperous farmers in Pulaski county, remarked: "Gentlemen, so far as the punishment is concerned, hanging does not amount to anything. I was hung once until I was insensible, and the feeling could scarcely be called pain." The bystanders thought that he was joking. "I am in earnest," he continued. "In 1865, just at the close of the war, robbers came to my house in search of my money. As a precaution against such visitors I had given two watches and $600 in gold to a trusty colored woman to keep for me until times improved. I was lying in bed, crippled. Several men entered the room, and, without saying anything put a rope around my neck and began to pull. I told them that if they were going to hang me to wait until I could get my crutch, so that I could walk to the hanging place. They took me out on the gallery, and, throwing the rope over a cross-beam, asked me for my money. I told them that I had none. They drew me up. For a moment I experienced a slight choking sensation, and then I became insensible. When I became conscious, after being taken down, I was sitting on the steps. The sensations while regaining consciousness were very much like those experienced during a nightmare."

PAPA—"That picture shows the story of Prometheus and the vulture that fed on his liver. Every day the vulture devoured it and every night it grew for him to eat again." Sympathetic child—"Poor, dear old vulture! How sick he must have been of liver every day."

"Hi! where did you get them trousers?" asked an Irishman of a man who happened to be passing with a remarkably short pair of trousers. "I got them where they grew," was the indignant reply. "Then, by my conscience," said Pat, "you've pulled them a year too soon!"

A STRANGER took his watch to the watchmaker to have it repaired. After a few minutes' work the watchmaker handed it back with the remark that the damages were $2. "What was the matter with it?" asked the stranger. "There was a hair in it." "Was that all?" You might have found a hair mattress in it for $2."

A PHILADELPHIA lady is so opposed to anything suggestive of card-playing that she will not have even a deal-table in her kitchen. And she wants to be translated, like Elijah, so that she may escape "shuffling off" this mortal coil. And she can't bear to hear any allusion to Gabriel's "last trump," and won't have a "tray" in the house.

LOVE AND PAIN.

"I love you, little sweetheart,"
He in tender accents said.
"And I love you, too," she answered,
As she bent her pretty head.
And the stars looked down from heaven
On the charming tete-a-tete,
As the pair of youthful lovers
Gently swung upon the gate.
"Yes I love you," she softly murmured,
Looking up at him again.
"Holy mackerel! Gee Moses!"
Answered he, in direct pain.
For, alas! we never know the
Ingenuity of fate,
And love that betrays us often,
To a mashed thumb in the gate.

"WISCONSIN GIRL"—Your poem commencing—

Canst thou remember, my darling,
A time when you thought of, but me,
When our joys and hopes were recounted
To each in the old trying-tree?
has been received, but we shall decline
to answer until after looking up the laws of Wisconsin concerning breach of promise.
In regard to the last stanza—
Should you ever the Stygian river
First rest 'neath the life-giving tree,
Will you pause in its shadow, my darling,
And wait in the silence for me?
we can only say that if in case you are a trip or two behind on the ferry it will be a pleasure to sit on the bank till you arrive.
Anything that we can do to please poets—outside of printing their efforts—will be cheerfully attended to.
